While the dates and times won't be announced for a few months, the Steelers know who will be on the 2025 regular season schedule, which includes the traditional AFC North opponents.

This year the AFC North teams will face the AFC East and the NFC North in games at home and on the road. In addition, there will be three games based on home teams finished within their divisions, with the AFC North teams facing teams from the AFC South and NFC West at home and the AFC West on the road.

With 17 games on the schedule, the Steelers will have an additional home game this year, with the NFL rotating the 17th game on a home/away basis each year.

At home the Steelers will play the Baltimore Ravens, Cincinnati Bengals and Cleveland Browns in the North, in addition to the Buffalo Bills, Green Bay Packers, Indianapolis Colts, Miami Dolphins, Minnesota Vikings and Seattle Seahawks.

On the road the team will face Baltimore, Cincinnati and Cleveland, as well as the Chicago Bears, Detroit Lions, Los Angeles Chargers, New England Patriots and New York Jets.
